NOTHING BUT THE BEST SHOULD SATISFY GLENDALE

By JOHN H. GERRIE Civic Development Expert

Will Glendale be satisfied with anything but the BEST in her schools? After leading the whole country in development and growth, will this marvelous city be content to play second fiddle or third fiddle or some lower fiddle in the education of her youth?

"The best is none too good for me," has been the attitude of Glendale throughout her unsurpassed record of achievement, and it does not seem probable that in this stage of her brilliant career she will sacrifice her young on the altar of false economy. Glendale is too proud, too imperious, too ambitious, to jeopardize her future because a few false prophets would save her for the present a few dollars in the building of schools.

That saving now would be costly in the future, for land that today may be purchased in acreage for school sites that soon will be needed, by the time that need has become a demand will be priced high by the frontage. When the vacant lots of the present are occupied by homes from which boys and girls will go out to seek knowledge the institutions where that knowledge may be obtained will be so far and so crowded that the education of a considerable part of the young people of the future will suffer in consequence.

The bond issue of $350,000 upon which the electors of Glendale will vote on October 20 is to provide a fund to ensure that the youth of today and tomorrow and the near future WILL NOT SUFFER for lack of schools or lack of room within those schools. It is to provide an additional school site in the northwestern. section of the city, where school facilities are now meagre and where large residential development is looked for in the immediate future. It also is to make possible the carrying out of the plans to give Glendale the handsomest and BEST EQUIPPED high school in Southern California, which means in the United States, for this section of the country is famous for its institutions of learning.

The central feature of the magnificent Broadway high school, as planned, will be a fine auditorium where all the students may be brought together daily for addresses, songs or entertainment. It is a feature recognized as highly desirable, if not actually imperative, by educators and school boards everywhere. It is a feature the Glendale high school cannot be without unless those who have the power to make it possible are content to allow this present leader to fall behind in the race of progress.

ge of the bond issue of $350,000 will ensure the embodiment of an auditorium in the splendidly conceived high school plant of this city and district. . Failure to carry the bonds on October 20 would mean curtailment of the plans and ELIMINATION OF possibility in a community of such proven enlightenment and ambition as Glendale, but in a matter of such paramount importance as education, it is a measure of wisdom to remove all causes for doubt before the issue comes to the people. The only possible argument that could be advanced against the passage of the bond issue would be that of economy. And that is a FALSE ARGUMENT that is calculated to react upon any who, for selfish reasons, may have recourse to it.

A saving of $350,000 now might cost Glendale ten times that amount in less than ten years in actual cash outlay, to say nothing of the incalculable injury to future leaders of the city through inefficient facilities for the dissemination of knowledge in the meantime. Glorious Glendale can be satisfied with NOTHING BUT THE BEST in education, as in other desirable acquirements.

HONOR TO BEST BABIES

The best babies of the Verdugo Hills will on Monday face the judges in Los Angeles for the final great sweepstake prizes of Southern California.

Whether the babies of the Verdugo Hills will carry off the honors against all the other little ones of the whole of Southern California is to be determined by the judges in Los Angeles.

So far as the judges in Glendale have been able to detremine, the babies who defeat the children from this district will need to be absolutely perfect. None other can hope to match the contestants from the Verdugo

While there are five special prizes allotted to the Press for distribution here, these do not cover all the credit that should go to some of the little ones here.

The credit for the little ones will be given by the judges through Glendale Press to all those children who were accredited as super babies. This credit will be given in the form of Honor Certificates which will be sent to the parents of every child reaching the high percentages of perfection.

To receive one of these honor certificates means that the little one is one of the highest grade children of the whole district, including Glendale, Burbank, Tujunga, Montrose, La Crescenta, Eagle Rock, Glorietta, and that the recipient has survived one of the most severe tests of perfection that has ever been applied to children in the search for intellectual and physical perfection.

Such a certificate in time will be valued beyond price ince they are to be sent to the very hgihest grade chil-

DISCUSSED AT DINNER

Chamber of Commerce Com mittee and Officials Are Harmonious

The dinner given by the depot ommittee of the chamber of commerce to officials of the Southern Pacific railroad for the purpose of discussing the possibilities of a new station for Glendale, proved a very harmonious and satisfactory conference.

George Bentley, chairman of the ommittee, presided, and all his fellow members were present, viz:
George B. Karr, William Hunter,
Dr. C. F. Stuart, P. J. Hayselden, E.
D. Yard, and H. L. Finley.
Guests of honor were F. S. Mc-dinnis, general passenger agent for the southern district; Frank Karr, second vice-president and chief counsel; J. E. Light, district freight agent; C. J. Day, traffic manager for the southern district.

Members of the city council and

City Manager Reeves were guests, also the directors of the chamber of commerce, likewise Clyde The daker, local agent of the Southern Pacific, covers being laid for 26.

Following a very excellent din-ner served by the Glen Inn, the meeting was called to order by Mr. Bentley and its purpose explained by George B. Karr, who set forth the good and sufficient reasons why Glendale desires a new depot. Mr. McGinnis expressed his very great interest in Glendale. He said the officials of his road have had the matter of a new station in mind and in the near future their decision will be announced. He practically assured the committee that

Shortly before 5 o'clock he was again awakened by the child's cries. He rose quickly and by the aid of the dawn was able to locate the little one in the drive-way almost across from his home. The child was found beneath a small orange tree and indications showed that it had scrambled around as best it could in an effort Gia to find relief from the cold. It was dressed in cheap clothes and ver the around it was wrapped a cheap sweater. The supposition is that the parents were very poor and thought that by this proceedure they would find a better home for their child. ... The little one is being retained

Coming up from behind through a drizzling rain, the Giants took the fourth game of the world's series at the Polo Grounds this afternoon by a margin of 4 to 3. Opening with two runs in the first inning, the Yanks led the Giants until the latter went to bat in the fifth inning, in a downpour of rain, and tore off four runs. With the rain increasing in downpour, the Yanks went to bat in the fifth and failed to score.

Neither scored in the sixth. The Giants went out in order in the seventh. The Yanks opened with a home run by Ward with no one on base. The inning closed: Giants 4, Yanks 3. The Giants again failed in the eighth but Mc-Quillan held the Yanks also scoreless to the end.

Don't Be Fooled

"FOOL me once," says the proverb, "and it's shame on you. Fool me twice and it's shame on me."

Don't be fooled when it comes to spending your money. Patronize the merchants who have a reputation for fair dealing and honesty. Such motives must actuate the consistent advertiser. The man who invests real money in building a reputation for himself and his merchandise cannot afford to risk any of it by taking unfair advantage of his patrons.

The consistent advertiser pays money to tell you about his goods. He knows they are good he backs them with his money because he believes they will satisfy. Only merchandise which is consistently good can be consistently advertised.

So advertising protects you against fraud and inferiority. It tells you what is new and good, making you a wise buyer. It saves you money by pointing out for your consideration only the best products and the best places to buy them.

Thrifty men and women read the advertisements. To them it is a plain everyday business proposition—a duty they owe to themselves and to their pocketbooks. Don't be fooled.

It may therefore be regarded as expressing authentically the views of the ex-king.

Kingship as a calling is becoming more and more precarious. A monarchy that in reality is a democracy, may afford to maintain a kingly head, for he will be also a figurehead, and the flow of government business will go on, neither quickened, checked nor turned away by him. But the old-fashioned king, who was a ruler, empowered to declare war at will, cannot ignore the fact that his day is about

EARNING MONEY

A congressman gets a salary of $7500 a year, often being the largest income he ever earned. A senator gets the same, but the chances are that he Dr. Frank Crane and squirm and vociferate about has reached such monetary status that the salary its impracticability as much as you please, you canquestion does not bother him. Judges on the supreme bench get a few thousands more, the highest judicial position paying $15,000. Cabinet officers are paid $12,000. The President is paid $75,0000. There is no complant that the salary of any of these officials is too high.

Recently a movie actress was telling her domestic woes. One of these arose from the fact that she had "made her husband financially" and that his appreciation had failed. She explained that when she met him he had been earning a mere $350 a week, and that she had put him in the way of receiving a real income. This is quite interesting. If one takes the trouble to figure a little, the fact appears that $350 a week is $18,200 a year. On less than this, worthy persons have been known to among the movie stars. There are many others whose incomes represent far more than the normal interest on a million dollars. It is said that little of Common Sense, when the proposal was made that all the nations should organize into one so that all the nations should organize into one so

These statistics are interesting. They form a sort of index to the public intelligence. The public pays. It has not the slightest ground for grumbling. The scale of values is fixed by the public alone.

WHISKY ACTIVITIES

The illicit traffic in whisky continues with all its attendent phases of fraud and of tragedy. Agents ere selling themselves to the crooks, or if they refuse to sell, are being accused of corruption. It is not at all singular that there should be instances of ribery, since the bribes available are immense, and oubtless some of the agents had sought their posifions for the purpose of getting into contact with he opportunity to profit illegally. There are plenty f agents who are above all such temptation. f these have been killed in line of duty.

The so-called whisky still appears to manifest the leadly qualities that have warned all but a few types of drinkers to let it alone. The types that refuse to be cautious include the hardened tope tho, for the sake of imbibing something capat: of intoxicating, is willing to risk fatal results. When the results arrive, the loss to society is not great. the depleted ranks of the toper class are recruited from a second type. Such are the gains to be derived from the sale f "moonshine" that men never before violators of he law, are tempted to manufacture the stuff. The courts are kept busy dealing with them, and as a ale, are severe. There is no other effective method of procedure. The public still believes that the forrent of poisonous liquors can be stemmed, and the a aking of it rendered so costly and dangerous that

They move at such angle, or with such relation to the progress of the car, that a desperate scramble is all that saves them, and often this method fails. The awkward or unskilled person falls. He may alight under the wheels of the car, or in front of an automobile. He may escape with bruises and wenches and torn clothes. His haste profits him nothing.

It may cost him any price, up to life itself.

That boys expose themselves to grave perils is not strange. Their discretion is immature. They see others voluntarily incurring needless risk, and are impelled to do likewise, on about the same principle that impels them to jeopardize life and limb be cause of a "dare." Any day in any city, boys may be observed permitting their wheels to be pulled along by trucks or automobiles, as the riders cling with one hand to a rod or brace. The speed of the engine-driven vehicle changes suddenly, or there is the small boy whose caperings a quick swerving of its course. Often the boy is burled to the pavement. The Goal of Common Sense

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It is often as long, long a way to the Goal of Common Sense as it is to Tipperary. Irresistible Common Sense tells every human that the only way to stop war in the world is to establish order in the world. And Common Sense just as unswervingly indicates that the only way to establish order in the world is to have one International Court to settle disputes among the nations, and place in the hand of that International Court the one supreme police Call such an arrangement by ized world. No matter what their opinions may be, citizens are compelled to delegate the enforcement of law to courts and policemen.

And no matter how inefficient or corrupt law may be, it is better than anarchy.

The state of the world today is pure AN-ARCHY. For anarchy means that each nation is its own judge and policeman, and that there is no supreme authority.

That is what the Old Order means. That is the condition that brought about the late world war. That is the system that is responsible for ciety and settle their disputes in one supreme trib unal. The selfishness, backwargness, inertia and blind partisanship of the world prevented mankind from attaining this goal.

Shameful to say, in this delinquency America was the chiefest of sinners. Partisanship trickled and slew Idealism. We rushed back to the Old Order as a hog to its wallow.

So the Old Order goes on. It is that which is responsible for the horrible massacre at Smyrna. If there had been any central government for the world, any Society of Nations that was not toothless, all these calamities would not have oc-

How long will it be before the slow, dull minds of men see that to have world prosperity we must have world order, and that to have world order we must have one International Police, and that this in no wise interferes with the integrity, dignity and destiny of any nation, but, on the contrary, is the best preservation of nations! The record radio relayer is F. B. Ostman, operating amateur station 20M at Ridgeway. N. J. He has reported to the American Radio Relay league that he received and retransmitted 408 citizen messages during the month of August. Previous comparable records do not approach this feat by 100 messages, and the acc dishment is also remarkable favorable to radio work that is prevalent in August. All of the traffic was handled by means of a spark transmitter which has a reputation for not being efficient when the static are usually operated only two or three hours on three or four nights of the week.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

The news columns tell of the purchase by a big steel man of gambler often is as unscrupulous.

The amateur dabbler, who thinks he is buying wheat, is doing aothing of the sort. He puts his money in, but he never owns a pound of grain, because he buys from others who never had any. He is betting on the fluctuations, nothing else. He might as well, for all the good he is accomplishing, and with equal intelligence, lay his money as to the first lump, of two lumps of sugar, a fly would light on. Indeed, this form of amusement is not unknown.

The people of this country have no objection to the honest fortune. They are glad to see a man of worth acquire wealth by labor, invention or legitimate traffic. They have no patience when they see money heaped up by gamblers. Their sympathy goes out to the poor suckers who supply the money. The man who grows wheat, grinds it, bakes it, carries it to market, is entitled to returns on his labor. The man who gambles in it is entitled to nothing.

Eighteen days after the authorities of Iowa has hanged a man for good and sufficient reason, his widow ceased her mourning, and took fresh marital vows. The woman seems to lean towards a type that one more timed might choose to avoid. Her first husband as serving a life term for murder of their child, her second she divorced for cause not stated, and her third on the ground that being in the penitentiary for horse-stealing he was of no use around the house. No charge has been formulated against the present husband, No. 5, but that of lunacy is saggested.

"We know as much about this universe as a black beetle on the track knows about the flying express that roars over its head," says a newspaper writer. His statement may be characterized as fyperbole. Human intelligence, while aware of its own limitations, is aware of the universe, amazed at the stupendous and orderly functioning of this globe and countless others far greater. There is no justice in comparing human intellect to that of the beetle. The secrets of the universe are being more and more revealed by questing minds of men. The beetle is not interested in the flying arranges.

There is a section of Chicago that trembles nightly at the sound of ghostly cries, and noises described by one auditor as resembling "the sound of padded bricks dropped on empty coffins." Pretty creepy situation. Perhaps somebody with a radio set is playing a joke on the community.

Announcement is made that a man will undertake, while blindfolded, to drive an automobile from Los Angeles to San Francisco.
inis would be all right if he were to risk only his own neck, but the road is for common use, and is commonly used. The old trick if driving a spirited team through crowded streets has been performed many times. That it could be done with safety was due artly to the intelligence or to team, but mostly to be ascribed to fake.
In automobile, however, nossesses us intelligence. This perfectler. In automobile, however, possesses no intelligence. Colishness proposed should be prevented.

A duck hunter is in jail for having shot another duck hunter rol appears to have much to explain. For a hunter after deer to root one of his kind, is not rare, despite the fact that the resemblance of a man to a four-pronged buck is vague and remote. The or hunter, slaying a pursuer of the bear, but missing the bear, is used on the ground of fright. The man who is bulleted on the ory of being a rabbit, has a right to feel insulted, while mixing e identity of a human being with that of the duck that flies, is nact wholly without grounds for defense.

It is singular to read that wooden failway cars are now almost tinct. Because they should have been extinct years ago. The lady who guides my destinies—and occasionally wrecks some the little ones-made an important statement last night. We were tired out, for we had been doing the giddy social round, which consists in seeing people you do not care for when you do not want to see them, eating things you do not want, and sometimes lapping up a few goblets of your so-called host's synthetic gin, which tastes like furniture polish gone sour.

"I am going to edit my list of friends," said the lady.

She explained that an inspection of the mirror—for the incriminating page in the old family Bible has long ago been torn out—has convinced her that she is verging upon middle age. There are a few gray hairs, and around her eyes are odd lines. Also her digestion is not what it should be, although, praise heaven, her figure has not

GOOD LUBRICATION ADDS TO CAR'S

If Car Is Oiled and Greased Well, It Will Give Good Service

There is nothing that contributes supply should, of course, be conto the life of an automobile as stantly kept at the proper level. does proper lubrication, this including both oils and greases in connection with the machine. Naturally, any two wearing surfaces that are permitted to run dry break down quickly, and must, consequently, be replaced at a cost of time and material to the owner.

Oil is certainly cheaper than resequently, be replaced at a cost of time and material to the owner. Oil is certainly cheaper than repairs. One burnt-out main bearing on any car will cost more for replacement than the oil supply for six months would amount to, and the same might be said about many other parts of the car. In some parts of the machine, however, too much oil may prove troublesome, so that the aim should be to keep the oil level, "about even" at all times. Cheap oils and greases are, generally, expensive if secured free of charge. In oils as in all other things, you generally get what you pay for—and nothing more—so that if you pay a good price you will in all probability get get good oils and greases.

> "Will anyone venture that the man and a temporarily blinded motorist is far fetched? Unfortunately the condition is comparable—dangerously so," said Robert W. Martland, secretary-manager of the California Automobile Trade Association, in a recent address before a large group of business men and car owners. Mr. Martland further stated, "Arrests for headlight law violations are entirely legitimate. The motorist now has a definite assurance that his lights will be properly adjusted."

There will no lenger be any exse for this glaring headlight nuisance that is reaping its toll in death and injury every 24 hours," said a prominent traffic official recently. "A law that has been in-active will be enforced. Automo-bile owners and drivers are to be safer hereafter on the city streets and the country highways. They will be safe from others and the others will be safe from them. At the same time a light that will be perfect in every respect will be made possible with a proper adjust-ment of the headlights on every vehicle that is within the jurisdiction of the local police department.

"In the interest of getting bet tery and ignition work to the mot ter and safer lights for motorists, orists of Glendale. the Glendale police department is co-operating in every way with J. T. Twenty percent of the motorists on the roads in Southern California are law-abiding citizens in regard to headlights. Most of the other 80 percent are not willful violators of the law. These violate the law through ignorance thereof, and it is these motorists who are making the highways unsafe for night driving. For the few who willfully disobey the law, there is only one cure, and that is the "jug." Ordnarily a fine is laughed at, but when the judge says "thirty days" they do a little squirming. THE TROUBLED BOY

Don't you worry, Little Man,

If the world is full of woes, If it seems a jumbled plan, That's the way it someting If the blister and the burn

Ache and smart and cause you pain Happy hours will return, It will all come right again. Don't you think you've lost the song

And the whistle and the cheer; If the day goes somehow wrong, There's another glad one near. And the stone bruise on your toe, And the patch and tear and stain, Well, the world goes sometimes so,

But it all comes right again.

Don't you think the world is lost With the puzzling rule and sum, Don't you count too high the cost

If the answer does not come;

Smooth the wrinkles from the brow, In the end we will attain What we struggle for somehow, It will all come right again.

Don't you worry, Little Man, We'll have grit and grin and cheer, We will do the best we can, Put away the fret and fear. For I love you, yes I do, And I've known the hurt and pain, And I tell you it is true,, Things will all come right again.

Most Valuable Players in A. L. By HENRY L. FARRELL United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.-First basemen, second basemen and catchers seem to be in a position where value counts most on a In the vote taken recently among the sport writers to decide the prize for the most valuable player in the American league, five votes each were cast for players in the above positions. Four votes went to pitchers, four to shortstops, three to outfielders and one to third basemen.

Veteran baseball writers named 27 players on their ballots and the votes in some instances were apparently placed out of sentiment rather than respect for ability.

It is rather amazing that Kenneth Williams, the great slugger of the St Louis Browns, and Bing Miller and tance clouters of the Philadelphia Athletics, failed to get even a single vote when such players as Burns and Pratt of the Red Sox; Meusel of the Yanks; Peck, of the Senators and Cutshaw of the Tigers were considered good enough for votes.

Teddy Hayes, former trainer of Jack Dempsey, who got the champion in shape for his fight with Carpentier, has been appointed athletic director of the new Hollywood, Calif., Athletic club. During the war he was physical director of the Great Lake naval training station and had charge of thousands of men. He is well qualified for his new position and ought to make good.

In the normal process of events, Yale ought to have a very difficult time in developing a successor for Malcolm Aldrich, the great captain of the 1921 varsity eleven. Reports from New Haven indicate that Newell Neidlinger may make the Elis forget Aldrich. He understudied Aldrich last season and he had about as much chance to shine as the substituet shortstop of the New York

For sour faces and mournful tongues, the usual run of college football coaches are the champions of all weights and all classes.

Bob Folwell, head of the Navy football department, was the first big one to bay to the skies this fall.

"We lost our whole line and we'll have a tough time winning a game. The Army ought to beat anything in the country. They shouldn't lose a game," he said recently to friends in Philadelphia.

With practically the whole 1921 team available—and it was a powerful organization—the prospects at West Point were indeed most rosy up until a few days ago, when Walter French, the brilliant halfback and the whole works on the offense, was downed by scholastic difficulties and left the academy.

West Point hasn't an abundance of back field material and as the whole offense was built around French, the army officers will practically have to start all over. Not so good!

French, who was also a star baseball player at West Point, has signed a contract to play with the Philadelphia Athletics next seafiercest struggle of the year. Then the spirits of earth shake off their lethargy of rest, ferment into the effervescence of energy with which they face the vital issues before them. They must provide, not only for themselves, but for the new life which shall succeed them; they must compete, not only with the myriad rivals who fight beside them, but with those who would prey upon them.

Cadmus's sowing of dragon's teeth, which sprang up into fighting men, was no more than the bursting of the grass seeds, each sending its green spearpoint through the sod, straining upward to attain its stature, root contending against neighbor root, leaf against brother leaf on the self-same stalk. The wave of verdure which sweeps aloft through the budding trees, or breaks in a foam of blossoms at their crest, is snatched from the growth about their feet. The bee, her working

This is geographically necessary to take care of the high school students of that fast-growing portion of the city and this writer hopes to see the bonds voted by an overwhelming majority. It will certainly be along the lines of prudent economy for the district to select new site before all the suitable and available locations are taken for subdivisions.
